CGI Names New Senior Sales Representative
Jody Ogaz takes lead role in CGI Commercial Sales Division

MIAMI – June 13, 2007 – CGI Windows and Doors, Inc., a leading manufacturer of premium, impact-resistant windows and doors, has named Jody Ogaz to the newly created position of Senior Sales Representative. Ogaz will oversee sales activities for CGI throughout Central and Northern Florida, in addition to leading the new CGI commercial project division statewide. Ogaz brings more than 26 years of window, door and glazing experience to CGI's senior sales team.

"With Jody's sales background in the Florida market combined with his knowledge of commercial project management, he will be integral in growing our presence throughout the state," said Executive Vice President, Steven Dawson. "We are excited to add another industry expert to our senior sales team to better support the company's ongoing expansion."

Most recently, Ogaz was a Hurricane Product Manager in Architectural Sales for Oldcastle Glass, the largest producer of architectural glass products in North America. Prior to that, he was an architectural sales representative for YKK AP America, Inc., an international producer of fenestration systems for commercial and residential markets, and held various positions at Kawneer, a commercial aluminum building products manufacturer.

About CGI

CGI has a strong reputation for offering architectural-grade impact windows and doors with unique features and high-quality construction that exceed industry standards. CGI products have been specified and installed in some of the most prestigious residential and commercial projects in South Florida, including Fisher Island. Established in 1992, the company was the first impact window and door manufacturer to offer PVB laminated glass designed exclusively to meet the Miami-Dade County impact-resistant protocols. The company has recently moved into a new 110,000 square foot facility in the Miami area.
