CGI Names New Director of Marketing
Len Quist Joins Expanding Business Development Team

MIAMI – June 26, 2007 – CGI Windows and Doors, Inc., a leading manufacturer of premium, impact-resistant windows and doors, has named Len Quist to the newly created position of Director of Marketing. Quist will manage the company's brand and image, marketing communications and strategy, event planning and programs, dealer and installer training programs and sales-support activities. Quist brings more than 20 years of corporate marketing experience to CGI's senior sales team.

"Quist will be instrumental in developing sales and marketing initiatives that further establish the CGI brand in the marketplace," said Executive Vice President Steve Dawson. "We are very pleased to bring on a seasoned marketing executive to enhance our ongoing expansion efforts."

Most recently, Quist was group marketing manager for Jarden Consumer Products, a global durable products manufacturer and marketer of Oster, Sunbeam and Conair brands. Prior to that, he held various marketing management positions at major international consumer products companies, including Sara Lee and Colgate-Palmolive.

Quist holds a bachelor of arts degree in business administration from University of Washington and an MBA from Columbia Business School.

About CGI

CGI has a strong reputation for offering architectural-grade impact windows and doors with unique features and high-quality construction that exceed industry standards. CGI products have been specified and installed in some of the most prestigious residential and commercial projects in South Florida, including Fisher Island. Established in 1992, the company was the first impact window and door manufacturer to offer PVB laminated glass designed exclusively to meet the Miami-Dade County impact-resistant protocols. The company has recently moved into a new 110,000 square foot facility in the Miami area.
