CGI Names Steven Dawson to Executive Vice President Sales

MIAMI – August 16, 2007 – CGI Windows and Doors, Inc., (CGI) a leading manufacturer of premium, impact-resistant windows and doors, has announced that Chief Financial Officer Steven E. Dawson has been given the additional role of Executive Vice President Sales. Dawson will lead the growing sales and marketing team, as well as play a critical role in ongoing business development initiatives.

Dawson joined CGI early last year as CFO responsible for the company's finance-related functions and partnerships. In March Dawson was named Executive Vice President Sales to help accelerate CGI's growth and expand their reach in the marketplace.

"Steve has been a key member of the executive team since he came on board last March, focusing on our expansion efforts," said CEO and President Flavio Quesada. "His business development expertise has helped guide CGI's growth in the past year, initiate the growth activities we need to further build our brand and escalate our position in the marketplace."

Prior to CGI, Steve was president of Dawson Associates, a financial consulting firm. Steve has more than 20 years of experience as a financial and operations executive, serving as EVP/CFO of Radio Unica, Vice President of Finance and Controller for Telemundo, a Spanish-language television network and CPA for Price Waterhouse Coopers.

About CGI

CGI has a strong reputation for offering architectural-grade impact windows and doors with unique features and high-quality construction that exceed industry standards. CGI products have been specified and installed in some of the most prestigious residential and commercial projects in South Florida, including Fisher Island. Established in 1992, the company was the first impact window and door manufacturer to offer PVB laminated glass designed exclusively to meet the Miami-Dade County impact-resistant protocols. The company has recently moved into a new 110,000 square foot facility in the Miami area.
